ESTIMATE 0624 · ONE EVENT DAY

Your event, explained

A quote full of model numbers doesn't tell you much. Here's the same quote in plain English: what you're getting, and why each piece is there. Setup, crew, and takedown are all included.

Sound — $550

If people can't hear, nothing else matters. This gets clear sound to everyone in the room and to anyone watching online.

Two podium mics (one fixed, one wireless), mics and stands for performers, all cables and power, an iPad so our engineer can adjust volume from anywhere in the room, and a box that feeds clean audio to the stream.

Podium — $200

A clear acrylic podium for your speakers. It looks clean on camera and doesn't block anyone's view.

Cameras, livestream & slides — $1,710

Three remote-controlled cameras give you three angles of the event without paying three camera operators. One tech steers all three from a joystick, switches between cameras and your slides, and sends the result to the screens and the livestream.

3 cameras ($825), camera controller, video switcher, laptop to run slides and the stream, preview monitor, a wireless clicker so speakers run their own slides, tripods, and all video cables.

Screens — $2,200

Large TVs around the room so the back row sees what the front row sees: the speaker up close, the slides, the video.

This quote includes six screens, from 55″ up to 85″. If your room needs fewer, this number comes down.

Crew — $1,700

Gear doesn't run itself. Three people, all day: they set up before your guests arrive, run everything during the event, and catch problems before you notice them.

Lead sound engineer ($600), video technician ($600), sound assistant ($500).

Delivery & setup — $500

We bring everything, set it up, test it, and take it all away when you're done. You don't lift a thing.

Total — $6,860

$4,660 in equipment + $2,200 for people and delivery. No tax. Nothing else is added.
